It's a bike and burritos party in Harvard Square

Ride your bike, walk, or take Mass Transit to the "Go Green Walk/Ride" party this Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. sponsored by the Harvard Square Business Association party and enjoy free bike parking, music, and treats.

Boloco will hand out free smoothie samples and coupons for heavily discounted burritos. The Harvard Square Business Association will stamp the hands of those wearing green and arriving green with the "Go Green Walk/Ride Stamp" and provide information about "Bike & Burrito" themed incentives to reward you for going green on this Walk/Ride Friday! Enjoy free bike parking, music and treats. All are welcome to attend this free public event.

Boloco is certified by the Green Restaurant Association and utilizes, among other things, compostable corn cups, bamboo bowls, and "spudware" (potato starch silverware). Boloco has been composting at two locations (including Harvard Sq.) since early 2009 and has plans to expand to all 16 restaurants in the near future.

Boloco will be selling their wide variety of globally inspired burritos for $3 from 5 to 7 PM. In addition, Boloco will provide free smoothie samples outside their restaurant located at 71 Mt. Auburn St.

Later in the evening, Boloco will be kicking off their new, late night, weekend hours with a $3 burrito from 11 p.m. until 2 a.m.

Boloco is also a sponsor of Boston Bikes and participates in the city's Bike Fridays, which encourage commuters to "go green" and bike to work.
